Official Opening of Wensley Wing

The College was honoured to have Australia's Governor-General, His Excellency General the Honourable Sir Peter Cosgrove AK MC (Retd), officiate at the opening of the Wensley Wing on 19 March 2016.

Dignitaries, special guests, Old Collegians and members of the Wensley family were invited to the official opening. In his address held in the College Dining Hall, the Governor-General compared his time at Duntroon with that of a College experience and how it supports, shapes and develops the independence and attitudes of students. After the unveiling of the plaque, the official party proceeded to the Wensley Wing where Sir Peter and Kate Wensley (daughter of Robert Wensley), cut the ribbon. Current residents were informal hosts to the Governor-General as he chatted to students while touring through the state of the art accommodation wing.

OLD COLLEGIANS' LEARNING CENTRE

the WILLIAMS BUILDING

In addition to the Old Collegians' Learning Centre extensions completed in July 2015, internal renovations were completed over the summer break on the Eastern side of the Williams Building.

The living spaces were redesigned to incorporate built in dining and lounge area seating. Bedrooms and bathrooms were also fully renovated. The result has been very well received by its new residents! The remaining side of Williams will undergo renovation at the end of the year.

SIGNAGE UPGRADE

To tie in all spaces, an upgrade to the signage around the College has been undertaken.

Aesthetically pleasing, this now provides clarity of building names and directional signage for students and visitors.

FROM THE MASTER

Gregory C Eddy
Master and Chief Executive

The theme of the first magazine of the year is “Building with Purpose”. Not surprisingly there is significant space applied to the Wensley Wing and associated works completed late in 2015 and the official opening in March 2016 by His Excellency, General the Honourable Sir Peter Cosgrave, Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia.

In recent years, the College has most certainly built with purpose. There has been an approved and agreed Master Plan supported by the University as well as the College community. It has produced wonderful results for the College with greatly improved facilities and accommodation for more young men than ever before. However, to build with purpose and focus merely on the built environment is to ignore the most important of all bricks and mortar – the men who live here. The College’s Vision is that King’s will be a College “which will enable diverse and innovative young men to serve and pursue individual excellence” while the Mission of the College is to “provide a home where men will excel under the most inspiring and enriching conditions.”

I recently read yet another article where a “for profit” company announced its intention to build with the sole purpose of providing more accommodation for students (and with little or no intention of providing much more). To continue in this deliberately provocative manner, Rev Evan Burge, long serving Warden of Trinity College at the University of Melbourne observed at his Welcome Dinner in 1974 that,

“It is precisely in these aspects – building a genuine community and ensuring that the raison d’être of that community is the pursuit of knowledge – that the Warden of a College differs from the manager of a hotel or keeper of a glorified boarding house.”

Make no mistake – there are any number of accommodation providers building with one purpose in mind only and it has nothing to do with building a community or the pursuit of knowledge. A “for profit” company can’t simply build a large building and house 400 students and claim to be a College – nothing could be further from the truth. A collegiate experience at University is the best possible experience and King’s remains committed to ensuring that men who live here will truly benefit from all the building (physical, emotional and spiritual) which is done at King’s and this is certainly evidenced in the articles written by Kingsmen Ben Gowen & Henry Watter, later in this edition.

2016 ENROLMENT DINNER

The former Deputy Master Jamie Smith and his wife Sue were welcomed back as guests at the Enrolment Dinner to officially ‘farewell’ them from College. After five years at King’s, Jamie has taken up the position of Director of Enrolments at Brisbane Grammar School. The College wish Jamie and his family every success for the future. Congratulations to our Bursary and Scholarship winners.

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

A number of new Scholarships and Bursaries were awarded in 2016.

The Platinum Club and the Malcolm Whyte Bursary Fund were established in 2013 and many Old Collegians have generously supported these new scholarships and bursaries. The College is very grateful to all Old Collegians and current families who have so generously sponsored this important initiative.

The College's goal is to raise $5m by 2023 and we are building towards this – even in difficult financial times. Pictured are some of the inaugural recipients of these Scholarships and Bursaries and the College warmly congratulates them all.

Wensley Scholarship - Building with Purpose and on the Legacy of Robert Wensley, QC

In memory of Robert Wensley's outstanding service to King's College, Robert's family and the College have agreed to establish a scholarship to be known as The Wensley Scholarship.

The scholarship will be awarded to a continuing student, wishing to remain at the College for a second or later year and whose financial situation precludes this. All donations to the Wensley Scholarship are tax deductible through the College's Foundation.

In 2016, the College will award a significant number of scholarships and bursaries to:

1. recognise outstanding leadership and academic success and
2. support students in financial need.

This year's Annual Appeal calls for your continuing support, especially of those students who are in financial need – building to $5m by 2023.

Please see Annual Appeal on the back page of this edition.

HENRY WATTER

I WAS HONoured TO RECEIVE THE MALCOLM MCDONALD TRAVELLING SCHOLARSHIP LAST YEAR TO TOP OFF THE THREE BEST YEARS OF MY LIFE SO FAR, AT KING'S COLLEGE. I'M PLANNING ON TRAVELLING TO CENTRAL AMERICA AT THE END OF 2016, TO VOLUNTEER IN A MISSION-BASED MEDICAL CLINIC. WITH A LITTLE LUCK, THROWING MYSELF IN THE DEEP END OF THIRD-WORLD MEDICAL CARE COULD TURN OUT TO BE THE EXPERIENCE OF A LIFETIME!

Taking it back a couple of steps, I grew up in Roma, Western Queensland before moving across to the Sunshine Coast for secondary school. I attended Matthew Flinders Anglican College, graduating in 2012 and was lucky enough to receive provisional entry into the MD program at UQ.

Considering 10 of my classmates at Flinders (including a couple of guys I still live with) had already applied to King's, I figured it must be worth a look.

After seeing the colleges on open day, it was a no brainer. The pool, the gym, the guys – it's all there. I spent my three undergraduate years at King's, studying a Bachelor of Science. And what a three years it was. The standard Thursday exchanges, the difficult Friday morning 8.00ams, the balls, the sport – all great fun for a fresher straight out of school. The social aspect is a given, but it's difficult to explain the mateship that forms within a College of 300 men.

Moving through King's gave me a chance to meet one of my great mentors – Emeritus Professor Trevor Heath. Trevor's official role at King's is Academic Consultant but as he openly admits, his advice extends far past which subjects to take. He talks openly about his experiences and offers carefully thought-out pastoral advice when it's warranted. Not only that, he is a great mate to all of us at King's and a mean squash player! He still manages to hit me off the court, just as he did to my parents when they were in Vet school at UQ.

This year, I've started medicine and have entered the real world outside of King's. Besides a tougher workload at uni, I've had to realise that the cooking and cleaning doesn't just happen magically as it did at King's (thanks Dell).

Tutoring first year Biology this year at King's has given me a chance to hang on a little longer – it's great walking through the College and seeing the place looking as good as it does. The construction done, the Wensley Wing completed and the Learning Centre fully extended. Yet they look like they have always been there.

The College has done a fantastic job upgrading their facilities to keep pace with modern demands, while maintaining an authentic feel of the place. As one of the last 'Country Estate' residents in second year, I was especially pleased to hear that the old bricks had been recovered to construct the College crest on the front of the Wensley Wing.

I have a lot of things to be thankful to the College for, not least the opportunity to experience medical placement in beautiful Central America. The opportunities on offer at King's are fantastic, if you are receptive to them. Without the generous donation of the Bursaries, these opportunities – for which I am so grateful – would not be possible. So thank you!

At the Commemoration Dinner held in May, Henry Watter was named The King's Scholar of 2015. The medal is awarded to the Kingsman who has achieved at the highest level academically. The medal was presented to Henry by E/Professor Trevor Heath OAM.

RUGBY 10S / HONG KONG

Building on successful campaigns in Australia the King's College Rugby squad departed for the Hong Kong 10s tournament in the mid semester break.

Led by Matt Jarvis, David Jackman and Jarrod Kidston as Manager and Coaches the tour was an outstanding success in more ways than just on the paddock. Reaching the quarter finals before bowing out (the game could have gone either way!), the team was awarded the "best and fairest" of the tournament. A special thanks to sponsors: the King's Old Collegians' Association (KOCA) and UQ Sport. The Master, Mr Greg Eddy joined parents and supporters at the two day tournament and took the opportunity to host an 'At Home' for more than 80 people in the evening of the event. Tour Media Manager & current Kingsman Nic Darveniza travelled to Hong Kong and provided the following:-

Thanks to Zach Tuckwell (King's '84) who was the guest speaker and to Donough & Lisa Foley for all their help.

David Jackman (King's '10-'13) presents Team of the Tournament trophy to the Master at the Commemoration Dinner.

IN APRIL, A SQUAD OF 30 KINGSMEN TOURED HONG KONG TO COMPETE IN THE WORLD'S MOST PRESTIGIOUS RUGBY 10S TOURNAMENT, THE GFI HONG KONG 10S. WHILE THE TOUR SERVED AS A CELEBRATION OF THE HARD WORK AND TALENT OF KING'S ATHLETES ON THE SPORTING FIELD, MEMBERS OF THE TOUR ALSO ENJOYED THE UNIQUE CULTURAL EXPERIENCE OF TOURING ONE OF THE WORLD'S CAPITAL CITIES.

King's tour-members were able to network with industry professionals in Hong Kong at several dedicated careers nights, designed to raise awareness of Hong Kong as a potential workplace for any career. Tour-members experienced the very best of what Hong Kong had to offer professionally, socially and culturally while also making their mark on the Hong Kong Football Club stage.

Coached by former College Student President David Jackman and Jarrod Kidston, King's Rugby 10s team defied their 10th place seeding to reach the Plate Semi-Finals on debut, winning the Team of the Tournament award in the process.

Headlined by some of Queensland Rugby's brightest young stars, King's on-field performance was praised by the tournament's commentators.

"These King's College lads have really impressed me today," one pundit said. "What a fantastic team they've been to watch. Their physicality has been unbelievable."

"It's very good seeing these guys, who are all young men, not get intimidated by their surroundings or whoever they're playing against."

"They're definitely fearless and they just don't care who they're up against," another continued. "They've gone out and shown with their actions that this is how we play: we're hard, we're physical, we're fast, and you'll play at our level until we get home."

King's opened their campaign against Hong Kong-based invitational side UBB Gavekal, spearheaded by Melbourne Rebels playmaker Dallan Murphy. The Wyvern forwards played brilliantly to secure a 19-0 victory over the 6th seeded side, announcing themselves as contenders with a reputation for ruthless defence - missing just one tackle the entire match.

Eventual tournament winners, Penguins, composed of the New Zealand domestic competition's most exciting players, were next on King's hitlist. Courageous defence, a clear theme for King's tournament, held the superstar New Zealand side to just one try for 18-minutes before conceding twice at the death to lose 17-0.

King's closed the day with a five-tries to two thumping of the Chinese National team to book a Cup Quarter-Final match-up with professional touring side, Samurai.

Spearheaded by New England Patriot and USA Sevens player Nate Ebner, alongside several English Rugby Sevens representatives, King's opened the scoring through Player-of-the-Tournament contender Jock Campbell. Samurai scored the next two tries before desperately holding out a King's comeback to escape with a 12-7 victory, relegating King's to the Plate Semi-Finals.

A strong Hong Kong Scottish side, boosted by two former Kingsmen themselves (Kane Boucat and Austen Smith), were able to outlast King's to score the game's only points in the final minute to win 5-0. King's finished the tournament in Seventh-place, but showed throughout the GFI Hong Kong 10s that the College was more than capable of a Top Five finish.

Members of the tour went on to enjoy a riveting Hong Kong Sevens tournament that weekend to conclude an unforgettable week.

This opportunity was provided through a joint initiative between St Leo's and King's Colleges led by Brother Rob Callan with the assistance of Mr Gerard Keating. Br Rob has led this programme since 1988 and during this time has developed strong connections and relationships that allow us to travel in a safe environment. Mr Gerard Keating is an associate with Edmond Rice and the Christian Brothers.

We travelled through India as a party of 8 students and 2 staff. Each of us had different experiences in life, different religions and different expectations. However, the challenging and confrontational experiences combined with respect united us to form a strong group. Prior to leaving, meetings were held every fortnight to help prepare us for this trip. This was essential for understanding and to develop social awareness of the environments we entered.

The locations we visited included Kolkata, Varanasi, Delhi, Agra, Jaipur and Channai. Each city visited allowed us to not only explore different sights but also meet new people and truly embrace the selflessness and humbling nature of the locals in each city.

Kolkata was our first experience of India and for me, the most memorable. Here we lived in the Christian Brothers' home in Dum Dum at St Mary's Orphanage. We were welcomed into their home with authentic Indian meals provided to us for Lunch and Dinner. It was here that we attended mass in the morning at the Motherhouse which has become a renowned tourist destination.

Coming home from four weeks in India, meeting people, helping others, volunteering, growing as an individual and embracing a new culture has given me a new appreciation on life.

four weeks in india

The last part of the volunteering was meant to be in Chennai, however this was cancelled due to a national state of emergency owing to flooding. Even though we were disappointed, it gave us an opportunity to visit other parts of India that were not included in the original itinerary including Jodhpur and Udaipur. The scenery and the history observed within these two parts allowed us to gather a further appreciation of the deep cultural values instilled within the individuals. The most noticeable difference observed is everyone is content with what possessions they have. They are by no means materialistic.

Rowing Success

Stroke of the King's first VIII crew at the 2015 Henley Royal Regatta, Elliott Apel, has been named in the U21 Australian Rowing Team. Competing for Toowong Rowing Club in the recent Nationals in Sydney, Elliott won Gold in the U21 pair, 2nd in the U21 quad and 2nd in the interstate men's youth eight. In early September, the under 21 Australian Team will take on New Zealand at Lake Karapiro in the annual Trans-Tasman Regatta for the Rusty Robertson Trophy. A great achievement to date Elliott! We look forward to hearing of results from across the Tasman.

FROM THE

DEPUTY MASTER

Firstly, may I thank everyone within the King's College community for such a warm and supportive welcome following my arrival in February. Belinda, our children (Miriam, Jacob, Hannah and Nathan) and I have been made to feel very comfortable at King's and have greatly enjoyed meeting many of our College neighbours, parents, Council members, university staff and most importantly, our students.

For those I have not yet met, my background prior to joining King's College was as an officer within the Australian Army. Over the past 24 years I have been fortunate to serve and lead young men and women from across Australia on several deployments including missions to Iraq, Afghanistan and two tours of East Timor. As an Infantry officer my role focussed on the establishment of security and stability in these nations, a challenge that will require sustained effort for many years to come. I have also been fortunate to work closely with colleagues across Asia and the Pacific, particularly Singapore, Thailand, Korea, New Zealand and the United States. While serving within Australia, I have held a number of training roles including serving as the Head of a small College within the Australian Defence Force Academy for two years. These experiences have provided exposure to many diverse cultures and reinforced the importance of leadership, trust and common purpose, hopefully preparing me well for my new role here at King's.

Prior to my arrival I was confident that I would be joining a College containing many highly talented young men focussed on learning and developing skills for their chosen professions. I have certainly found this to be the case, and have been impressed to see so many Kingsmen contributing to the success of the College already this year. The desire to serve within King's has been clear with recent examples including the planning and execution of our Orientation Week by the Senior Leadership Team, the conduct of several successful competitions including Tennis, Swimming, Debating, Chess, Rugby, Touch Football, Rowing, Cricket and Water Polo. It will be important that we continue to sustain a high level of commitment and involvement throughout the year as these activities provide excellent learning opportunities to both those involved in the teams and those in planning and leadership roles.

As I consider the remainder of 2016, my initial goals include learning further about our history, getting to know more of our students and better understanding the role so many play in supporting King's College. I am also keen to encourage and find opportunities to assist Kingsmen in realising their full academic, sporting, cultural and spiritual potential. This could include accessing one of the many academic or leadership programs from within the Learning and Leadership Centre or volunteering to serve in a leadership role with one of the many sporting or cultural teams. Either way, I strongly encourage all students to get involved in one of the countless opportunities available for personal and professional growth while studying at King's.

Thank you once again for your warm welcome and I sincerely look forward to getting to know you all better throughout the year.

STUDENT PROFILE BEN GOWEN (KING'S 2013-)

MY FIRST EXPERIENCE WITH KING'S COLLEGE (OR BOARDING FOR THAT MATTER) CAME WHEN I ATTENDED THE OPEN DAY IN GRADE 11 (2011).

Jamie Smith (the Deputy Master) had been to my High School on the Sunshine Coast to introduce himself and explain the numerous benefits associated with residing at King's while studying. My interest peaked. However, I had no idea of which college I actually wished to attend.

The open days showed me that King's College was full of guys who were both athletic and smart. I wasn't the type of guy to play a lot of sports, or stimulate my mind with complex maths problems; so I was unsure if I could really bring anything to the table. After all I was just a kid who grew up on a farm in The Glasshouse Mountains.

I applied to King's and was accepted in early 2012 – knowing full well that I would be pushed out of my comfort zone! All I needed now was an offer to study a Bachelor of Environmental Management (Sustainable Development) – another success! The first week of College was overwhelming to say the least – it didn't help that I tore the ligaments in my ankle on the first morning. Nine of us in total came to King's from Matthew Flinders to start in 2013. However, living in separate Flats meant it was time to branch out – step out and embrace the unknown. I now have a couple of great mates that will be lifelong friends. It's the enthusiasm, friendship and support these boys have given me that has partly made me into the person I am today – and I am truly grateful to them all. Although many of my mates have now moved on from College, and are living the life of a day student, there are still a few guys around that I know and are there for a chat.

The life at College is more than just the guys you live with; the staff make it all so much more special. Having Mila as my cleaner for 2 years was sensational – she was always there to have a yarn and give me a break from the study. Life at King's would have been nowhere near as easy without the constant help from Sue, Louise and Jamie.

My third year of study required an entire semester of placement, which I undertook in Nambour. Jamie was fantastic in helping me transition back to living at home, and ensuring my place at King's was there waiting for me on my return in 2016. For me, one of the biggest decisions every year was whether or not to return to College. As it turns out, it was one of the easiest decisions to make – the thought of having to cook, clean, catch a bus made King's more appealing than living in shared accommodation. These reasons also combined with the main reason I decided to stay, the College atmosphere and how it helps you grow.

The advice I would give to any first, second or third year thinking whether to renew their contract, would be to think about how this College has helped you flourish. While at times loud and distracting, it is the perfect accompaniment to any university degree. The support available, through the tutorials and the ease of getting to and from classes, makes it all worthwhile. There are also many opportunities that a College life will provide. There are many functions at King's that will permit you to meet and greet with a number of high profile individuals, all of which result in starting to build your professional profile.

Throughout my time at King's and university, I have spoken with a number of people outside of College life on why I chose King's. Many noted a perception as to what it means to be a Kingsman, in that we are all about the party lifestyle and have little respect for those outside of the Residential College lifestyle. I must say that for some boys I have seen during my time at King's, this may have proven true. Some have come to this College and moulded themselves into an image of what is "cool," and left with the idea that college is all about the banter and the parties. I think it is important here to note that I have found this College to be an excellent institution where it is possible for boys to mature into young men, and progress to first-rate positions in society.

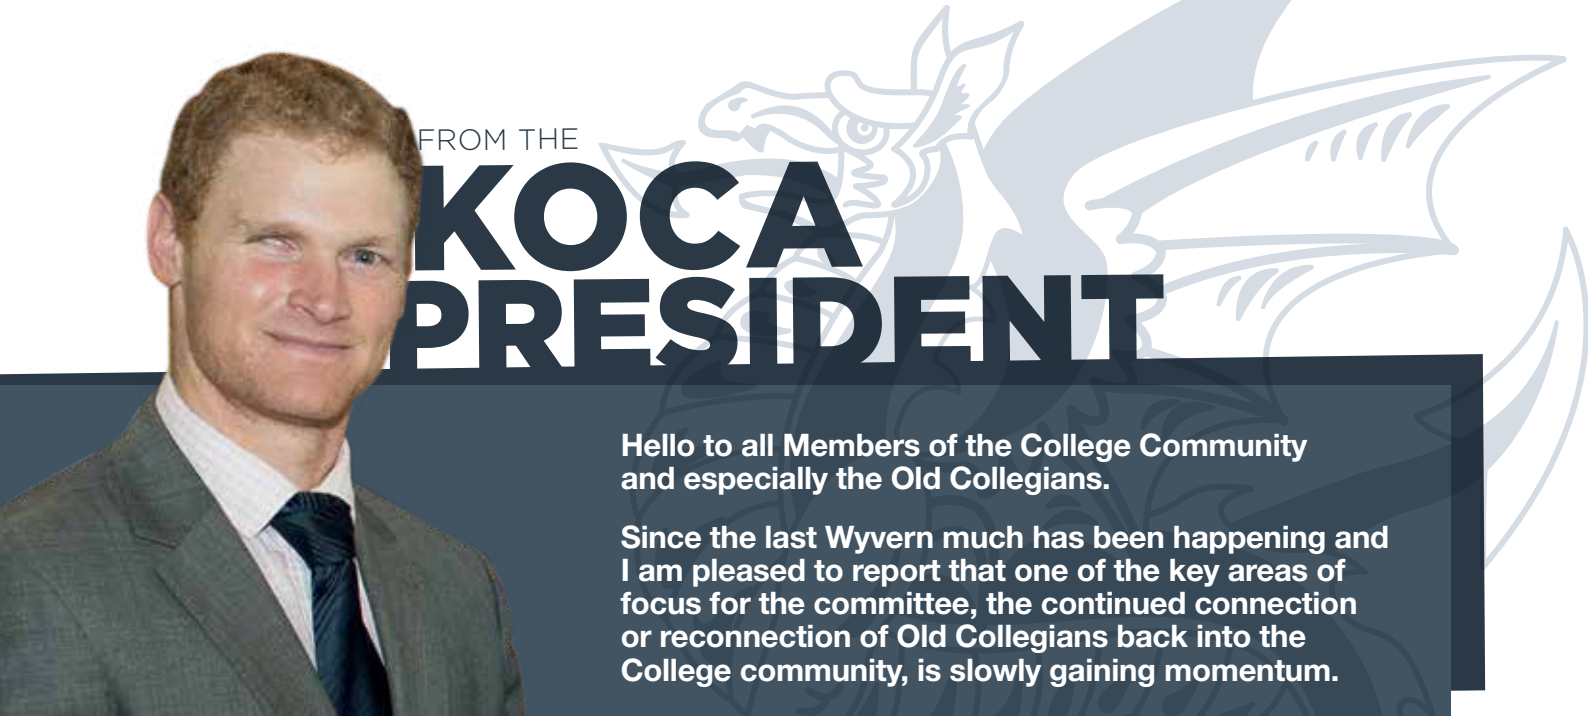

Thinking back on it now, King's has been an experience of a lifetime, and being in my final year of university, I wouldn't have had it any other way. The opportunities that have presented themselves to me have been unreal, and I truly believe that I wouldn't have been able to do as well as I have without the support and lifestyle that King's has provided.

I must say a sincere thank you to all the staff and mates who have made my time that much more special, the friendships and guidance provided has been surreal. Therefore, I think the only thing left to say is, Wyvern Brother!

FROM THE

KOCA PRESIDENT

Hello to all Members of the College Community and especially the Old Collegians.

Since the last Wyvern much has been happening and I am pleased to report that one of the key areas of focus for the committee, the continued connection or reconnection of Old Collegians back into the College community, is slowly gaining momentum.

The best indication of this has been from the Welcome to KOCA Drinks with approximately 40 Kingsmen converging upon the tried and true watering hole for Kingsmen, the Stock Exchange. This is the third year of the Welcome to KOCA event, held each year on the last Friday of February at a Brisbane City location. The previous years were a little light on numbers with 10 – 15 people in attendance. The 2016 event was a great success and hopefully can be repeated and expanded upon in 2017. Thanks to Ben Crowley (2007-2010) for organising the night and all the Kingsmen who attended.

“Another success story for the KOCA has been the annual Cooper Foote Society Cocktail event

Another success story for the KOCA has been the annual Cooper Foote Society Cocktail event. The event is designed as a means for current Kingsmen preparing for a career within the legal profession and for Old Collegians already in the profession to meet, network and share their experiences. 33 Kingsmen past and present were on hand to enjoy the company of like-minded individuals and partake of a few ‘light’ refreshments. As is the convention for successful gatherings, a presentation to the assembled forum from an Old Collegian occurred.

Anthony Dare (2001-2003), now Managing Director of Dare Legal Recruiting and his fellow Director and colleague Lauren Ferguson, presented on what lies ahead for the lawyers of the future and the changes that are taking place in the industry. The topic is highly relevant given the current environment of disruptive change and uncertainty that is being experienced in many industries as the Australian and World economies shift gears. It was pleasing to see that a number of attendees approached Anthony and Lauren after the presentation seeking further advice, as this is exactly what the Cooper Foote Society events are designed to achieve.

For those who missed out do not despair, as it seems there are plans afoot to potentially hold a Cooper Foote Dinner later in the year. Thanks to a little prodding from one Mr Jim Farmer (1970-1972), Justice John Jerrard (1965- 1967) agreed on the night to take the lead on organising the event. Details will be finalised in the coming months but should you be keen to be involved, please pass on your expression of interest via the KOCA email address at president@koca.com.au.

While not a KOCA driven event but still one where many Old Collegians congregate, the Past Presidents’ dinner, hosted by the Master of the College on the McCullough Watson Terrace, was a raging success with many returning to share a great meal and evening of reminiscing with kindred spirits. The evening also included an impromptu look around the refurbished Williams building and the new Wensley Wing.

“... the Past Presidents’ dinner ... was a raging success with a many returning to share a great meal and evening of reminiscing with kindred spirits.

Upon reflection, consistent with the theme of this edition of the Wyvern evidences how KOCA is “Building with Purpose”. The purpose being to “keep evergreen the spirit of King’s”. I am very confident that the Association is building in the right direction given the excellent foundations that previous iterations of the KOCA Management Committee before have provided.

There is still plenty happening this year and I remind all that the next key KOCA events are:

- The KOCA AGM scheduled for the last Friday of July each year.
- The KOCA Annual Function – will this year be held in conjunction with the Francis & Kassulke rugby match and scheduled for 3rd of September. The event will commence before main match kick-off and be a free to attend event for all Old Collegians and their families. We will again have good food and drink and friendship in plentiful supply as we enjoy the Rugby match between King’s and St Leo’s.

I look forward to seeing all the Kingsmen who can make some of the upcoming KOCA and College functions and events and continuing the journey of building and maintaining a thriving Old Collegians’ Association.

All Hail the Great Wyvern.

Kingsman Colin Power's latest book is about the power of education: the kind of education that simultaneously improves the quality of life both of individuals and the wider society.

It explains why education must be viewed as a basic human right, as a value in and of itself, and reviews the evidence on how education builds the human resources that individuals and nations need to be productive, to continue to learn, to solve problems, to be creative, and to live together and with nature in peace and harmony. When nations ensure that such an education is accessible to all throughout their lives, education becomes the engine of sustainable development – economic, social, moral and cultural.

Rev Aubrey Baker (King's '46 – '48)

Aubrey Baker was brought up on a dairy farm outside Gayndah, in the Burnett district of Queensland.

A devout Methodist family formed in him a love of learning, a generosity of spirit, and a commitment to serve his fellow human.

He candidated to serve in the ministry of the Methodist church, and that is what brought him to King's, when it was at Kangaroo Point, around 1946.

Like most young adults in a student residential college, the experience for Aub was formative. He studied with people who became life-long friends.

From King's, he served in the Methodist church at Nanango, to which he took his new wife, Ailsa. He later served in Longreach, Barcaldine, Rockhampton, Townsville, and Brisbane.

In Townsville, he was the co-founder of John Flynn College, at James Cook University. His ministry turned to the whole of Queensland, serving as Home Missions Director, preparing the Methodist Church for the coming Uniting Church, and as President of the Conference in 1974.

He then served in Toowoomba, before branching out and serving as a Patrol Padre in the "Burke and Wills" Patrol west of Charleville, with the UCA's Frontier Services.

This ministry rekindled his love for the people of the bush.

His life was marked by that which formed him – a generosity of spirit, service, and a love for his fellow human.

Moderator, UCA Qld Synod

VALE

The College is aware of the deaths of the following Kingsmen. We remember them in our thoughts and prayers.

Colin James Birch (Kings '70-'72)

Passed away December 15, 2015, unexpectedly following a hernia operation. A UQ graduate in agronomy, Colin will be remembered for his many scientific contributions to farming, agronomy and agriculture. A dedicated family man, Colin is survived by his wife Rosemary, his children and their families, including eight grandchildren.

John Cribb (King's '52 – '53)

Passed away 20 March 2016, aged 85.

In 1953, John Cribb, B. Com. and Congregational theolog, was one of the fortunate Kingsmen to occupy one of the buildings scattered around the Kangaroo Point premises which was known as 'The Butterbox'. With a fine baritone voice and an infectious sense of humour, he invited this fresher to join Trevor Harris, Dave Simpson and himself to form a quartet which spread musical delights across UQ.

John became a London Missionary Society missionary in Papua New Guinea, and after Church Union a Uniting Church Minister. However, for him and his wife Hazel, Wales became home. Together they actively walked, spoke and voted for social justice, even after John, in mid-eighties, was diagnosed with prostate cancer. Still asking questions from a mature faith, he died at 'Bryn Cadno', Todleth Hill, UK.

Alan Demack

David Morwood (King's '50 – '51)

Passed away April 2015.

David is survived by wife Judy, who recalls David having many fine memories of his time at King's.

Peter Booth (King's '02)

Passed away July 2015, tragically in Mozambique. Peter worked as a casual lifeguard at the Fremantle Leisure Centre and studied arts at the University of WA. He was an avid traveller and an active member of the Cottesloe Surf Lifesaving Club.

Mark Bestmann (King's '78 – '80)

Passed away 3 February 2016, aged 55.

Fellow Kingsmen attended the funeral in Mareeba following Mark's untimely passing. A respected rural GP, he was passionate about teaching and had supervised a generation of students and registrars. He is survived by his wife Margie, and their five children.

Anthony Boyd (King's '64 – '67)

Passed away May 2015.

Graduating in economics and then Accounting, Anthony was the KCSC Secretary in 1967, Council member of the UQ Students' Union, and a member of King's and UQ debating teams. For most of his working life, Anthony was a philatelist. For many years he had a stamp and coin shop on La Trobe Terrace in Paddington. Diagnosed with a rare form of Dementia Lewy Body Syndrome, Anthony was lovingly cared for by his wife Pamela.

NEW STAFF

The King's community welcomes May Paguirigan who joined the housekeeping team. Previously May worked at Paramount Safety. She lives with her two sisters (hope they are as neat as the residents of Williams Building!). May enjoys cooking in her spare time. Welcome!

KING'S COLLEGE MEMORIAL WALL

During planning stages of the new Forecourt and Wensley Wing, careful consideration was made for the relocation of the Memorials to past Kingsmen. Plaques neatly set flush into the brickwork are able to now adorn either side of the Wensley Wing gates.

The cost of the plaques shown including supply and installation are:-
Small $600 +gst and $780 +gst. Contact the College for any enquiries.

2016 ANNUAL APPEAL

SUPPORT FOR THE SCHOLAR

In the history of King's, 2015 will be noted as a year of great enhancement to the College's living & learning facilities.

As it stands today, King's simply would not exist without the generosity of many Old Collegians, their families, and friends of the College. However, buildings alone do not make a College...

The 2016 annual appeal seeks to provide the essential support needed for those who require financial assistance while living away from home in order to attend University.

The College has identified five particular areas where your financial support is needed to establish new scholarships or to bolster those which are in need of additional funds.

Your Donation Options Are:

- ☐ BUILT ENVIRONMENT
(Town Planning, Engineering, Architecture, Environmental Management)
- ☐ BUSINESS, COMMERCE, ECONOMICS
- ☐ EXERCISE/NUTRITION/ SPORTS/ BIOMED SCIENCES
- ☐ LAW

There are other options available ranging from travelling scholarships for overseas study to bursaries awarded for academic, cultural, leadership and sporting excellence including financial assistance.

☐ THE PLATINUM CLUB

The Foundation aims to raise $5 million by 2023 to establish an endowment which will provide scholarships to new students in financial need. If you would like information about the Platinum Club, please contact the Master's office.

☐ THE WENSLEY SCHOLARSHIP

Awarded to a continuing student, wishing to remain at the College for a second or later year and whose financial situation precludes this.
